ROLAND DP-970 DIGITAL PIANO

—Great Roland Features In Stylish Design—

Los Angeles, CA, January 17, 2006—Roland is proud to announce the new DP-970 Digital Piano. A unique and stylish approach to the home piano, the DP-970 combines the appeal of a Roland digital piano with a contemporary, stylish cabinet. Updated with new features like the acclaimed Twin Piano mode, the DP-970 is the ideal digital piano for smaller living spaces.

With stereo sampled Roland piano sound, a dedicated twin piano mode button, twenty instrument tones including stereo-sampled pianos, an array of dynamic effects, built in 2-track sequencer and 64-voice polyphony, the DP-970 is a solid entry level keyboard solution for the home.

The DP-970 also comes equipped with 66 internal songs, and 13 demo songs for simple in-store demonstration.

The DP-970 is now available in light cherry and medium cherry finishes.

Roland is a world leader in the design, manufacture, and distribution of electronic musical instruments, professional audio equipment, multimedia products, and music accessories.
